

So, what do you do all day?

- Insights into the life of a SCF Fellow -

... I do work for the Foundation. Obviously.

But did you know this also entails:

- Setting up the budget, administering cash in and out flows
- Filing taxes
- Learning basic HTML to administer the website. I did a complete overhaul, so look forward to something entirely different.
- Recruiting the next Fellow (advertisement, reviewing resumes, conducting interviews, etc)
- Bringing in ideas about the Foundation's future development

It's basically like running a small business. It gives me the opportunity to be entrepreneurial.

... I learn about economic development and local government. Hands-on.

- Like the regular EDB interns, I take part in all activities at our workplace (meetings, events, etc). Through this I learn the workings of the County administration and get to meet many interesting local personalities.
- I collect data in the field and produce reports. I am responsible for the Visitor Center Report which measures the impact of 15 County Visitor Centers. Additionally, I am involved with the Women Owned Businesses Report which is the first of its kind at the EDB and will give us insight into women entrepreneurship in the County.

... I meet our wonderful donors and get inspired by their stories.

It usually involves great food or another fun experience.
Thank you!

... I preside over the Bay Area Alumni Chapter of my University

- I administer our website, social media, member pool, etc.
- I organize networking events and company visits. For example at Airbnb.

... I help out at events of the SACC.

A great opportunity to learn from successful business people.

... I meet our partners.

Such as the Consulate General of Switzerland in San Francisco or Small Precision Tools in Petaluma. It's an amazing opportunity to learn about their interesting and diverse fields of work.

... I have a personal project.

Which I am very passionate about: Together with two successful Swiss, Silicon Valley entrepreneurs I am designing an Entrepreneurship Class to be taught at University of St. Gallen, Switzerland.

And when you are not working?

... you find me driving around in the Fellow Mobile (the Volvo 1997) exploring every corner of Sonoma County.

... standing in line for Pliny the Younger.

... trying every single taco truck on Sebastopol Road.

... or hiking in one of the many local parks.

... also, I love to volunteer. I spend my Monday evenings at a United Way tax site, preparing taxes for low income individuals and families, especially Hispanics with limited knowledge of English.
